THE RESULT THAT MATTERED · WORLD SERIES

Eight runs, all with two outs.

The Milwaukee Brewers beat the Tampa Bay Rays 10–1 in Game 3 of the World Series on Monday, Oct. 26, at Tropicana Field in St. Petersburg, Fla. The result is final. Milwaukee leads the best-of-seven series 3–0, according to Wikipedia's record of the series, which lists an attendance of 40,388.

Seven straight hits

Seven hits in a row: no team had done that in a postseason game before, per the series record.

Wikipedia (2026 World Series)

The record notes two marks. The Brewers became the first team with seven consecutive hits in a postseason game. Jackson Chourio, 22, went 4-for-5 and became the youngest player with four hits in a World Series game since Joe Garagiola in 1946. Robert Gasser pitched six scoreless innings and allowed one hit; the Rays scored their only run in the ninth, off Brandon Woodruff.

Wikipedia (2026 World Series)

The first two games, in Milwaukee, were decided by one run each: 3–2 on Oct. 23 and 5–4 on Oct. 24. Neither franchise has won a World Series. One more Milwaukee win would give the Brewers their first title; by this issue's arithmetic, the Rays need four straight wins.
