The curve's middle rose into Fed day.

U.S. Treasury

Monday's curve did not move as one piece. On Treasury's par curve, the 10-year closed at 5.00%, unchanged from Friday. The 2-year slipped 1 basis point to 4.68%, and the 30-year fell 2, to 5.31%. In between, the 3-year rose 4 basis points to 4.79% and the 5-year rose 2, to 4.84%. The 2s10s spread widened by 1, to 32 basis points.

Bars start at 4%. The 6-month, 1-year, 3-year and 5-year rose; the 10-year held; the 2-year and 30-year fell.

Some bills moved more. The 6-month bill yield rose 5 basis points to 4.35% and the 1-year rose 3, to 4.47%, while the 3-month held at 4.22%. The 6-month now sits 35 basis points above the top of the target range.

U.S. Treasury · U.S. Treasury (real yields)

Inflation pricing paused. The 5-year TIPS real yield rose 3 basis points to 2.37%, one more than the nominal 5-year, so the 5-year breakeven slipped to 2.47% from 2.48%. It had risen on Thursday and Friday, from 2.40% on Oct. 21. At 10 years the breakeven held at 2.34%. By this issue's arithmetic, Monday's rise in the middle of the curve came through real yields, not inflation compensation.

The 5-year breakeven, four closes Nominal minus TIPS real par yield at 3:30 p.m. ET Bars start at 2%. Up Thursday and Friday, down a basis point on Monday.
